

Public Meetings set for Fort Bend County Public Transportation Terminal, Administration and Operations Facility

Fort Bend County is considering two sites for construction of a public transportation terminal, administration and operations facility to house its Public Transportation Department and related activities. The two sites being considered are the University of Houston Sugar Land Campus in Sugar Land and a tract of land at the intersection of Klauke and Cottonwood School Roads near the Fort Bend County Fairgrounds in Rosenberg, Texas.

Two public meetings are scheduled to provide more detailed information to the public and provide an opportunity for the public to comment. During the meetings, a brief presentation on the location(s), design, and construction timeline for the new facility will be provided.

The public is invited to attend, ask questions, and provide feedback on the plans for this new County facility.

Both meetings are scheduled for facilities that are accessible. If other accommodations or translation services are needed, please contact Twila Mouttet at least 3 business days in advance of the meeting date. Twila can be reached at 281-243-6702.
